RACHEL CORY
JUDGE

When she needs to get somewhere, Rachel Cory doesn't walk there; she dances. You may even catch her tap dancing down grocery store aisleways. Rachel is a dance educator, choreographer, and dancer from Ohio who has been dancing since the age of three. Her passion followed her to The University of Cincinnati where she attended musical theatre classes at the UC College Conservatory of Music and was a member of the UC Dance Team. She is trained in numerous styles of dance including jazz, tap, ballet, hip hop, musical theatre, modern, contemporary, and more.

Following college, Rachel danced and choreographed for several professional dance teams in the midwest, including the MLL Ohio Dance Machine. She has choreographed for over 20 years, and in that time, achieved numerous choreography awards and created multiple award-winning routines at regional, national, and world competitions.

Rachel taught in the education sector at performing arts academies and has a State of Ohio Department of Education 5 Year Professional Designated Subject (Dance K-12) License. Along with her extensive dance education, she is a certified member of Dance Masters of America Chapter 16. She continues to share her love of dance as a Whirlwind Dance Company Board of Director and as the Head Coach the Scarlet Dance Team at The Ohio State University.
