

Shauna Oliverio is a professional dancer, choreographer, and STOTT Pilates-trained instructor with a career that spans the globe. While earning her degree in Communications and Advertising at Oakland University, Shauna simultaneously launched her professional dance career, which has taken her to incredible heights.

She has trained and worked commercially in Los Angeles, performed in production shows across Canada, spent a year dancing aboard a Royal Caribbean Cruise ship, and graced the stage with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Her theater credits include standout performances in musicals such as Chicago, Cabaret, and Cats.

Shauna danced with Odyssey Dance Theatre under the direction of Darryl Yeager, completing five European tours, and later performed with Ron De Jesus Dance in Chicago, working under the direction of world-renowned choreographer Ron De Jesus. Her passion for dance has also led her to choreograph and teach master classes across the country. Shauna thrives on the creative process, always seeking new ways to evolve her craft.

In addition to her performing career, Shauna is the founder of Rapture Dance Intensive, an in-studio dance program that has been touring and teaching for 16 years. She also owns EVLV Training, a boutique Pilates studio where she offers private and semi-private sessions weekly.

Shauna's latest adventure is one she shares with her favorite collaborator, her husband, Chris. Together, they own and operate Rochester City Lifestyle, a hyper-local luxury magazine dedicated to celebrating the Rochester community. Shauna is excited to bring her creativity and passion for connection to this new endeavor.
